Hit Oil Well at Parker Location

20 Feet of Saturation, Driller Reports

Well, Just Outside City Limits, In Cypress Formation

E. E. Goad of Decatur, drilling the Frank P. Parker No. 2, this morning announced that he has an oil well in the Cypress formation.

"We certainly have a well," said Mr. Goad. "We have about 20 feet of good saturation."

This well, 315 feet north and 360 feet west of the SE corner of the SW quarter of Section 15, 9-6e (Harrisburg township), is practically in the city limits of Harrisburg. It is in an area of land between Route 45 in East Harrisburg and Gaskins City that was detached from the limits many years ago.

Mr. Goad said that pipe was scheduled to come in this morning so that the workers can set casing. After cementing, the operation must wait from five days to a week before a spudder rig drills the plug. It will be after the plug is drilled that it is known how big a well it will be.

But Mr. Goad was optimistic. Yesterday it was announced that drillers had hit gas going through the Upper Cypress. This was between 2,311 and 2,319. Drillers went on and found saturation in the Cypress, drilling to 2,351.

Drilling the well for Mr. Goad is John Unger of Carlyle. This well, it was pointed out, is the Frank P. Parker No. 2. Permits were received for the Parker No. 1 and No. 2 and the No. 2 was drilled first. The No. 1 drilling site is nearer the highway in the same area.

Mr. Goad has had experience as a pool opener. In March of 1954 he and associates opened the South Mt. Auburn pool in Illinois.

Class Officers Elected at HTHS

In elections marked by spirited campaigning and close decisions, classes at HTHS selected officers recently.

Jack Klein was elected president of the Senior class. He was president of the Junior class last year and vice president of his sophomore year. Marianne Alexander was chosen vice-president; Marilyn Gelsky, secretary; and Joan Gaskins, treasurer.

Robert Jones, newly elected president of the Junior class, doubles in brass. He is president of the local Hi-Y chapter. Other Junior class officers are: Janice Gidcum, vice-president; Judy Wiley, secretary; and Brenda Heatherly, treasurer.

Kendall McDonald, in a nip and tuck battle with Judy Whiteside, finally emerged victorious by one vote in the race for sophomore class president. Marilee Durham and Sandra Kihlmeier were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Proving that you really should never "underestimate the power of a woman" the girls of the Freshman class banded together to elect an all-girl administration. Linda Skaggs was named president; Kay Mitchell, vice-president; Pat Moore, secretary; and Janet Hall, treasurer.

New Polio Cases Rapidly Declining

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of new polio cases reported nationally still is falling off rapidly although 19 states reported increases last week.

However, the total increase in the 19 states amounted to only 100 cases. The U. S. Public Health Service said today that 1,038 new cases were reported in the week ended Oct. 8, a decrease of 18 per cent from the previous week.

There were 24,055 cases reported in the calendar year as compared with 30,044 in the same period of last year. During the disease year beginning April 1 there were 22,992 cases reported compared with 28,493 in the same period of 1954.

The service said that 247 paralytic polio cases were reported among persons inoculated with the Salk vaccine and 545 non-paralytic cases.

Bernarr MacFadden, Exponent of Physical Culture, Dies at Age of 87

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, a leading American exponent of physical culture for more than a half-century, died at the age of 87 here Wednesday night.

The wiry little man, who pyramided muscles, magazines and money into fame and fortune, succumbed to a blood clot on the brain, attending a relapse of a complicated liver and gall bladder ailment.

He died in Jersey City Medical Center where he was brought from his hotel room last Friday, after fasting himself into a coma in an effort to cure himself of a jaundice condition.

Disturb of Doctors

MacFadden had a lifelong distrust of doctors, and generally scorned medical aid in favor of his own prescriptions consisting of exercise, health foods and fasting.

Boy, 6, Dies Of Starvation; Arrest Parents

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A six-year-old boy died of starvation today in this city famous for its fine foods. His last words were a piteous plea for a sandwich.

Police said an older brother is in critical condition from malnutrition.

William Baughman, 29-year-old unemployed longshoreman, and his 38-year-old wife, parents of the children and five others, were arrested on charges of criminal neglect.

Juvenile officers said the two boys apparently had "lived hungry" for weeks, foraging through the carnival city's garbage cans for what scraps they could salvage.

Mrs. Baughman said her husband has been ill for a month with a nervous disorder and she has fed the family on $7 a week provided by her church.

Doctors said Lawrence Baughman, 6, died before dawn today after complaining of hunger. The other boy was identified as William Jr., 7.

"Is there anything we can do for you, son?" one doctor asked Lawrence.

"Yes sir," the boy said. "Get me a ham sandwich."

A short time later he was dead. Mrs. Baughman said she had waited for weeks for her husband to be admitted to Veterans Hospital.

"I thought I'd done as well each week with the $7 food money as a woman could," she said.

She said six of the children had to sleep on a single mattress on the floor of their one-room apartment. The baby, Lillie May, 1, slept in the only bed with the parents.

Adams Flies Ike's Views to Cabinet Meeting

Medical Bulletins Describe President In 'Happy Mood'

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower's increasing resumption of government direction was underlined today when he sent his principal aide to give the Cabinet the chief executive's views on matters it will take up at a meeting Friday.

Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, flew to Washington this morning after a bedside briefing session with Mr. Eisenhower Wednesday at Fitzsimons Army hospital.

Meanwhile, the President awoke this morning in what the medical bulletin from his doctors described as "a happy mood"—the first time that precise description has been used since the President entered the hospital Sept. 24 with a coronary thrombosis.

The President's brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, who flew east with Adams after a visit with the chief executive Wednesday afternoon, obviously was pleased with the President's progress in recuperating from the heart attack.

"Really Looks Good"

Dr. Eisenhower told reporters at Lowry Air Force Base that he thought the President was "looking fine" and "he really looks good."

Besides visiting with his brother, the President in a relatively busy day Wednesday also made public his interim reply to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's disarmament proposals, and scheduled a conference here Saturday with Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey.

In his reply to Bulganin, Mr. Eisenhower said the United States will be willing to accept a Russian proposal for arms inspection teams in both countries if it will help "dispel much of the present fear and suspicion."

But he coupled his acceptance with a renewed insistence on some form of his own proposals for swapping of military "blueprints" and reciprocal aerial reconnaissance.

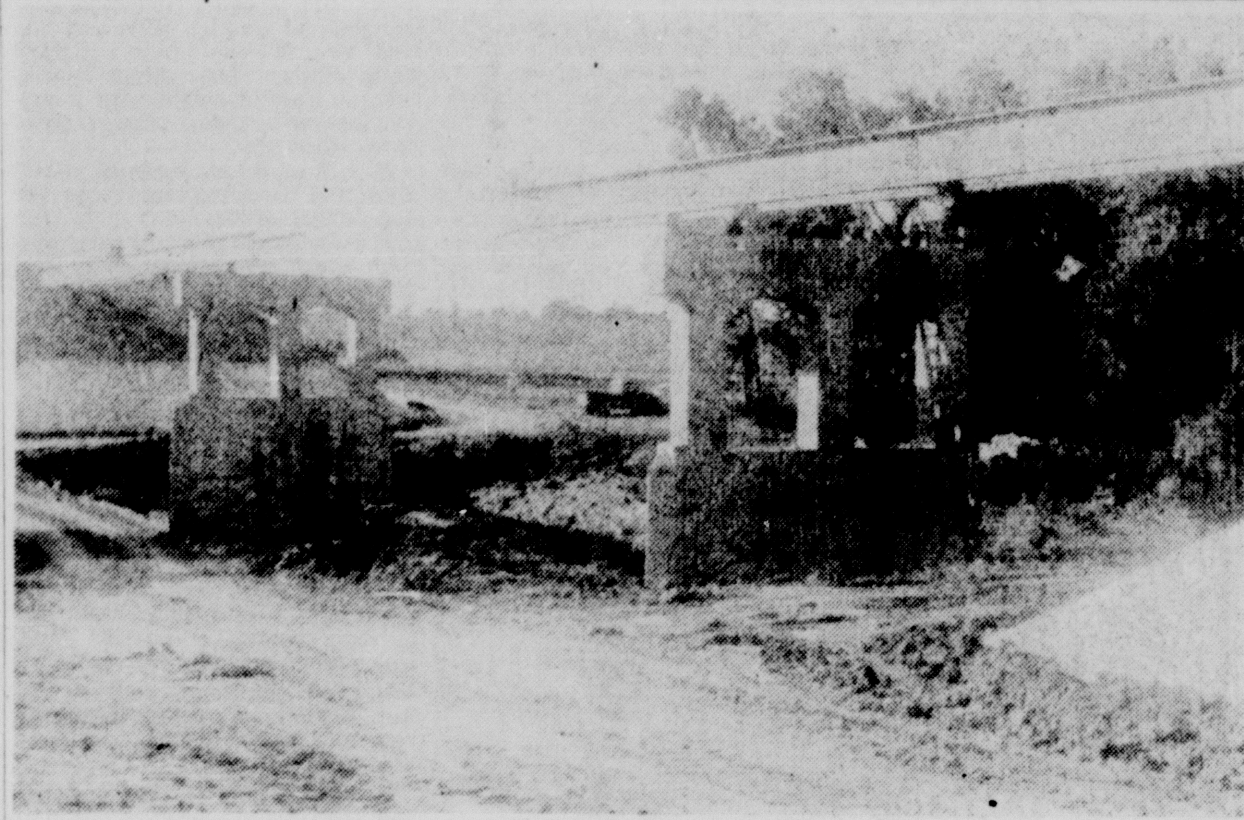

Bakers Begin Mixing Ike's Birthday Cake

DENVER (AP)—Bakers at Fitzsimons Army Hospital started mixing ingredients today to make a birthday cake for President Eisenhower and 2,128 Fitzsimons patients and staff members.

The President will be 65 Friday. Every patient and staff member in the hospital will get a slice of the white cake and probably more than the President. He is on a 1,600-calorie-a-day diet and the size of his slice already has been fixed at a weight of an ounce-and-a-half.

There will be 25 cakes. A round cake of two tiers, one 16 inches in diameter and the other 12 inches in diameter, will be sent up to the President's suite. It will be decorated with crossed American flags and have "Happy Birthday Ike" inscribed on the top in red icing.

Then there will be 24 separate one-layer cakes, 36 inches by 18 inches each, for the rest of the hospital staff and patients. The cakes will all be made of the same ingredients and iced with the same icing.

STEEL WORK ON THE SALINE RIVER BRIDGE on the Eldorado-Ridgway gravel road has been started, but delayed due to the bad weather. The bridge which crosses the Saline river on the gravel road that connects Rt. 142 just south of Eldorado and Rt. 1, near Ridgway, was started early in the summer and but for a six weeks' delay due to late delivery of steel would have been completed by now. The bridge proper is 303 feet long. A fill 19 feet high has been constructed and the overall length of the fill and bridge is about 2,000 feet. Howell Engineering Co. of Carbondale has the general contract and the dirt work is being done by the J. D. Barter Construction Co., of Harrisburg. The concrete pillars are 30 feet above the ground and it was necessary to pour concrete 24 feet below the earth's surface, making the pillars 54 feet from bottom to top. A total of 650 yards of concrete and 387,480 pounds of structural steel will be used in the structure. James Brown of Carbondale, superintendent on the job, stated "this is the keenest country bridge I have ever seen and I have built a lot of them." Brown stated recently he hoped to be ready to pour the bridge floor the latter part of October or early in November. (Daily Register Staff Photo)

Officials Unsure If Orient Mine Fire is Checked

WALTONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Company officials said today they still weren't sure whether the fire which started early Tuesday in Orient Mine No. 3 had been checked.

An official of the Freeman Coal Co. said conditions in the mine were "the same as the past two days." The mine, employing more than 400 persons, is the largest in Illinois.

Inspectors had planned to take samples today of air from behind seals that were placed in passageways to cut off air from the fire. However, the samples had not been taken up to 8:30 a. m. and an official said he did not know when the tests would be made.

A drilling rig was boring a hole to the fire area 800 feet below ground. It was expected carbon dioxide or other chemicals would be pumped in to help smother the flames.

The fire started when a coal buggy ran over an electric cable and shorted it. Mine rescue teams sealed off a large area of the mine which some estimates put at three-fourths of the total area.

A company spokesman said Wednesday it was impossible to tell how long the mine would be closed down until tests are made. There is a possibility the section of the mine not affected by the fire could be returned to production.

Tokyo Population Passes 8 Million Mark

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo's population has passed the eight million mark, challenging New York and London for the title of the world's largest city, it was announced today.

House Leader McCormack Sees Democratic Win if Ike Out of Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack today predicted a close presidential race next year if President Eisenhower runs again and a sure victory for the Democrats if he doesn't.

McCormack also predicted the Democrats not only will keep control of Congress but will increase their strength in both the Senate and House whether Mr. Eisenhower seeks reelection or not.

McCormack, in an interview, estimated that Democrats will have a "good chance" of scoring a net gain of 12 to 20 seats in the House and three to five in the Senate.

The Massachusetts Democrat said he anticipates a "wide open race" for the Democratic presidential nomination. He said recently that he would not be surprised if Adlai E. Stevenson failed to get the nod. There are several "excellent candidates," he said, but he declined to speculate on who is most likely to win.

Other Predictions Made

Other key members of Congress and leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties also made predictions about the 1956 presidential race.

In Seattle, Wash., Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California said he felt Mr. Eisenhower could win reelection despite his heart attack.

But Knowland dodged questions about his own ambitions. He also refused to discuss the "favorite son" presidential bid of California's Republican Gov. Goodwin Knight.

Defeat Bid at Convention for $100 Pensions

Move to Urge Withdrawal from UN Voted Down

MIAMI (AP)—J. Addington Wagner, an attorney of Battle Creek, Mich., and Purple Heart winner in World War II, was elected national commander of the American Legion today.

Wagner, who has traveled an estimated 86,000 miles in the last two years in behalf of the Legion and his candidacy, was named with only 35 votes against him.

The Legion convention at today's session also:

1. Beat down a determined attempt to put the three million legion members behind a move for $100-a-month pensions for all veterans when they become 60 years of age.

2. Overwhelmingly defeated, after a hot debate, a move from the floor calling on the United States to withdraw from the United Nations.

3. Killed a resolution asking Congress to give statehood to Hawaii and postponed for a year a similar resolution about Alaska.

4. Adopted a hands-off policy toward India and South Korea, recommending that this country withdraw from the Korean Armistice Commission so South Korea may "deal in its own way" with the threat of renewed Communist Chinese aggression.

"We deplore the continued economic aid given by the United States to India," said the Legion, which charged that India is actually giving material aid to Communist China.

After a furious debate, the legion overwhelmingly defeated a move from the floor to urge the United States to withdraw from the United Nations.

Leads Losing Fights

"The United Nations has caused irreparable harm to our republic and has endangered our fundamental rights," Charles J. Falkenberg of Chicago said. "The United Nations is merely one facet of a one-world welfare state program. There are 10 steps toward positive socialism in its charter and the charter embodies 17 war-like powers."

Falkenberg led both losing fights against the United Nations and for pensions for veterans. He was supported in the U. N. fight by Edgar Bundy of Wheaton, Ill.

The delegates, in their closing session of the 37th annual convention, expressed a "happy birthday" to President Eisenhower who will be 65 Friday. The resolution also expressed hope for a "quick recovery" of the President from his heart attack.

Without discussion, the Legion

18,000 Men to Be Drafted In December

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announced today that 18,000 men will be drafted in December.

The Army will take 8,000, which is 2,000 fewer than its November call, and the Navy will take 10,000. The Pentagon said all 18,000 men will be inducted between Dec. 1 and Dec. 10 and, because of the Christmas holiday season, no more men will be drafted after that until Jan. 3.

The December call will bring to 1,986,430 the total number of men drafted into the armed forces since the Korean war started. Of those, 81,430 were for the Marines early in the war, and 20,000 for the Navy. All the rest were called by the Army.

The Army has been drafting 10,000 men a month since last May. No official explanation was given for the drop for December. However, the Army is cutting back its manpower under administration military plans and, because of new enlistments and re-enlistments, has been running somewhat high in manpower for the last several months.

The December call makes the second month that the Navy has drafted men since it was forced to turn to Selective Service for the first time since World War II. The Navy also has called 10,000 men for November.

1.17 Inch Rainfall

Rainfall in Harrisburg totalled 1.17 inches between 7 a. m. yesterday and 7 a. m. today, Harrison Keblor reported. The amount for the same period at Galatia was .80 inch.

Truman Hits Legion Action Against UNESCO

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Truman said today the American Legion should have stayed out of politics and "doesn't know what it's talking about" in condemning UNESCO.

"I'm the only ex-president who is a legionnaire, you know, and I'm sorry to see the boys get themselves into politics, as they have no business doing," he told reporters.

Mr. Truman made the comments as he strolled around midtown New York on his customary early morning walk.

The former president's comments were directed at action taken by the American Legion at its convention Wednesday in Miami. Members voted overwhelmingly to denounce UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The convention urged Congress to repeal the laws creating the United States commission to UNESCO.

"The Legion doesn't know what it's talking about," Mr. Truman said. "They've gone haywire in the last three or four years and don't know what they're doing. Their own committees said it couldn't be done."

"They're a bunch of fine kids. They fought for the welfare of this country and most of them knew what they were fighting for, but they seem to have forgotten about it now."

Murder in Haiti
by John W. Vandercreek

THE STORY: Apparently the Caribbean cruise of Mystery Man Viggo Sand in his private yacht, is in search of "treasure." Bertrand Lynch, the British detective, who has been engaged, along with Robert Deane, American criminologist, as Sand's bodyguard, are being kept in the dark about the treasure and many others things as well.

Miss Lily Wyndam was one of the Vittoria's two female passengers. The other, only some dozen years older than herself, was her stepmother. Like everyone else aboard, their status was by no means plain.

She was about 20. She was one of the very few absolutely genuine, certified ash-blondes I have ever seen. Even a Graduate School professor knows about hair roots, and I'd looked. Though her figure was a shade too slim for robust tastes, it was nevertheless of the kind that made one think.

I strolled over and took my place beside her at the rail. I was old salt enough to know it was the starboard rail.

I had nothing special to say, so I stayed silent. While she scrutinized me, Lily also took her time. "You," she said at last, "are one of the house detectives, aren't you?"

"If you call this thing a house, yes."

"Nice work?"

"If the decks should run with blood, it would be. I am hopeful. Or, under the circumstances, should I say sanguine?"

Lily missed my joke. A pity. "You should have been with us on the way over."

"You mean the murder?"

Miss Wyndam's cigarette holder bobbed so she nearly lost it.

"You," said Lily firmly, "are unmistakably nuts. You're exaggerating. I suppose you mean Braun's arm? That's what I meant."

I should explain that one of the Vittoria's passengers, a German named Manfred Braun, was carrying his right arm in a black silk sling.

"No, but I'm curious about that, too. Kindly tell all."

"Possibly," she said guardedly. "What's your name?"

I was surprised. After 50-some hours of being fellow yachtsmen it seemed to me Miss Wyndam should have known at least that much.

"Why, Deane."

Lily made a face at me. "I can't call you 'Deane' as if you were a butler."

"Why not?"

"You mean because you are a house detective? My good man," said Lily mockingly. "I sense that you have known better days."

"Good of you. Robert would do."

"Robert sounds more like a footman than a butler but let's not discuss your family's taste. Why do you want to know about Mr. Braun's arm?"

"Because it's my duty aboard this expensive craft," I explained, "to prevent crime. An uncongenial duty, I admit, because I am extremely fond of crime. From your fragments of conversation, I deduced you know of some felony. Since you deny knowledge of any murder, no doubt because you are the guilty party, that leaves us with Herr Braun's game arm."

"I might add," I added, "that I am not just interested in Mr. Braun's arm. I'm also interested in the rest of him."

Lily nodded. "Me, too. No one could be so exactly like someone's private secretary as this Braun and not be phony. I only know he came aboard with the other freaks at Bremerhaven."

"Bremerhaven in Germany?"

"Is there one in Tibet? Yes. Didn't you know? This whatever-it-is of Viggo's started at Bremen. At least I know that that's where Souhani and Herr Braun and Herr Meer got on."

"The two Germans to whom you are so rude?"

Lily laughed. "Dear Robert! How ingenious you are. With the very rich one must either be rude or fawn on them. Rudeness is less undignified. I think they rather like it."

A chuckle in the deep shadows only inches from my ear made me leap almost overboard.

It was Viggo Sand.

"About you, Lily, I like everything. Forgive me that I have overheard you." Our host raised and shook an immense, pale and almost waggish finger.

"But I must instruct you both that on ships, in particular on little ships like the Vittoria, it is not always good judgment to have a private conversation outside a cabin window. Or even upon an unlighted deck on so inviting a summer evening."

"I was asking Miss Wyndam," I said, "about Mr. Braun's accident."

Sand's pale eyelashes fluttered. He shot the briefest of glances at Lily. My test remark, I sensed, had brought results. Something in that inscrutable expression convinced me that he had not heard that part of our conversation.

"Yes, a great pity," said Mr. Sand with no pity. "As is so often the situation in the North Atlantic, even in this season, we encountered some bad weather."

Something out of the darkness shot past our noses, something which was short and glittered, it passed inches closer to Sand's face than mine. A perceptible second later we heard a little splash in the sea below.

"What," demanded Sand, "was that?" His normally bass voice had deepened a half octave. His normally white face was paler still.

"That," said Lily Wyndam, with careful self-control, "was a knife. A . . . kind of dagger! I saw it quite distinctly."

Reds Deny Any U. S. Servicemen Held in China

GENEVA (AP) — Communist China said today it is "groundless" to hope that any missing American servicemen from the Korean War are still held in China.

The Chinese Communists also berated the United States for injecting the issue into the Geneva talks between the U. S. and Red Chinese ambassadors.

The United States counter-charged that Red China is offering to free American civilians who in reality are U. S. turncoats who did not want to return home.

The Communist Chinese statements were made today in a broadcast over Peiping Radio which accused the United States of adopting "new obstructive tactics" in raising the question of the missing servicemen.

The American statement came from a U. S. spokesman who said a Chinese offer to hand over 16 Americans included 16 turncoats from the Korean War. The Communists said 47 of the 66 could go home "at any time."

"We are still looking for about 500 American nationals we believe are still held on the Chinese mainland," the American spokesman said.

Appeal to Strikers To End St. Louis Transit Shutdown

ST. LOUIS (AP) — State officials pleaded today with defiant strikers to end their three-day shutdown of St. Louis' public transportation system.

Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton, the key man in the negotiations, was frankly reluctant to impose the penalties of the state law under which Gov. Phil M. Donnelly seized the strikebound company and ordered the strikers back to work.

Dalton said he was "optimistic" of arranging a settlement and that leaders of the striking AFL transit union were "cooperative." But he added there was no hope of getting St. Louis' street cars and buses running again before late today—if then.

It was bad news for the 250,000 persons who use the public service company's street cars and buses daily. Automobiles and legwork were the only ways of getting to and from work and a giant traffic snarl in the downtown area was getting worse instead of better.

Thousands of cars clogged the main traffic arteries during the morning and evening rush hours. Sidestreets, relatively clear earlier in the strike, were also becoming impassable.

Castle to Seek Second Term

CHICAGO (AP)—Latham Castle today announced he will run for a second term as attorney general in the 1956 Illinois elections.

"I am proud of the record I have made since I was elected in 1952," he said, "and my campaign for re-election will be based on that record."

Castle is the third Republican holding statewide office who has announced his intention to seek re-election next year. The others are Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and State Auditor Orville E. Hodge.

Mother to Bury Body Army Says is Her Son

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Luella Miller will bury the body of a soldier the Army says is her son Saturday, but she's keeping her Christmas tree lights burning in hopes that he'll still come back.

Her son, Pfc. Clifford Sapp, then 19, was expected home for Christmas almost five years ago in 1950. But he didn't come, and, in January, 1951, the Army reported he was missing in Korea.

Mrs. Miller kept her Christmas tree up and the lights burning through the years, 24 hours a day. Once she saw a newspaper picture of prisoners in North Korea and thought she recognized her boy among them.

Then, last month, the Army told Mrs. Miller that her son's body had been identified. The body arrived in Decatur Wednesday with a military escort. Mrs. Miller went to the depot. But she said, "I don't believe it's the body of my son."

She will go to the military funeral Saturday, she said, even though "I don't feel that I should give up hope."

"The casket contains the body of someone's son," she said. "And if it were mine the best would not be good enough. I feel I have to go ahead and go on with it as if it were my son."

But back in her living room, the Christmas tree lights will be shining, along with a mother's hope. "I can't see any point in taking the tree down," she said.

A combination of salt and vinegar will clean unlacquered brass and copperware.

Ex-FBI Agents Ask Funds for Research On Subversive Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two former high officials of the FBI will launch a concentrated drive next week to raise four million dollars for a research project which they claim would expose the extent and danger of subversive activities in the United States.

The ex-agents, Stanley J. Tracy and Milton Ladd, were among several one-time FBI men who last May formed the "Foundation for American Research"—an organization pledged to amass data on all groups and individuals allegedly working against the government's interests.

So far the foundation has not even established a base of operations and Tracy estimated today that it will take about four million dollars just to put the project into "full and complete operation" by the end of five years.

The library as envisioned, Tracy said, would provide the first and only central accumulation "under one roof" of all available data on the past and present activities of totalitarian groups.

Douglas Offers Plan to Boost Farm Incomes

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas accused President Eisenhower today of breaking his promises to the farmer and proposed his own four-point program for boosting farm incomes.

New Republican promises to bolster farm prices "ring a little flat," Douglas said, "when we recall the cavalier manner in which they gave their old promises in 1952 and then broke them."

Mr. Eisenhower's 1952 campaign speeches gave voters the impression he backed continued high government price supports, Douglas said in a speech prepared for delivery tonight before the National Editorial Assn.

But the Eisenhower administration has in fact slashed price supports, both by administrative and legislative action, the Illinois Democrat charged.

In a program designed especially to aid the small and average farmer, Douglas suggested that the government should:

1. Boost food consumption at home and abroad by increasing school lunches and by improving food processing, barter programs and the like.
2. Liberalize U. S. foreign trade policy so other countries can sell more manufactured goods in the U. S. in exchange for food.
3. Put more concentration on Agriculture Department programs that help operators of family-size farms.
4. Set up a subsidy program under which farmers could get the difference between the market price they receive for their products and a given percentage of "fair price" a parity, possibly 90 per cent.

Guardsmen to Remain at Plant

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—Six hundred fresh National Guardsmen arrived today to guard the violence-ridden Perfect Circle Corp. foundry and Gov. George N. Craig said the troops will stay in New Castle until next month.

The new troops, called up from Indianapolis, Anderson, and Alexandria, replaced guardsmen who have been on the scene since nine persons were wounded, eight of them shot, in a gun battle at the plant last week.

A total of 1,000 guardsmen, backed up by Sherman tanks and machine gun nests, are stationed in a two-county area to impose full martial law on 50,000 persons.

Fabulous Jewel Fortune Left Behind by Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A fabulous collection of jewelry worth possibly as much as $7,250,000 was left behind by ousted Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron, it was estimated today.

Government officials Wednesday night gave newsmen a glimpse of part of the Arabian Nights treasure trove accumulated by Peron during his 10-year dictatorship.

The newsmen watched government officials inventory the contents of Peron's safes in the presidential residence and two houses he maintained in Buenos Aires.

The jewelry alone was estimated to be worth 60 million to 100 million pesos ($4,350,000 to $7,250,000).

Earlier, it was reported that the government recovered more than 20 million dollars in gold and United States and Argentine currency.

Diary Tells Story Of Slow Death After Plane Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A crudely written diary today told the story of the slow death of a Phoenix, Ariz., sailor in the Badlands of Mexico following the crash of his light plane.

The body of the flier, William E. Falls, 22, was found by a private pilot. Alongside was the diary which told of 11 days of torture by thirst and starvation.

Poston Lists Obstacles to Developing Area; Has Faith in Southern Illinois Growth

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—A hard hitting speech by community developer Richard W. Poston highlighted the annual meeting of The Educational Council of 100, Inc. here Tuesday.

The diminutive firebrand, head of Southern Illinois University's community development department, diagnosed the area's "waiting-for-a-factory-disease" as a source of many community ills, but reaffirmed his faith in southern Illinois' capacity for growth.

The Council of 100, a group of southern Illinois educators and civic leaders dedicated to promoting better educational standards in the area, heard Poston following a conducted tour through the 375-acre Little Grassy Lake camping area recently leased to them for development in a public schools camping program.

William Freeburg, director of outdoor education at SIU, told members roadwork and utilities installation has begun, and that 14 public schools have already "indicated immediate interest" in sending students to the camp. Freeburg said the State Park Department has agreed to cooperate in road building.

Poston, whose speech was heard at a banquet on the SIU Vocational and Technical Institute campus east of Carbondale, ticked off a list of "inherent obstacles" in the job of developing southern Illinois communities. Most of them, he said, spring from the locale's natural and social history—inferior soil, a "cultural inferiority complex," and economic and cultural lag, sparse water supply, the "ups and downs" of the coal mining industry and the absentee capital on which it was built. He said teacher's salaries are below par, buildings out of date, many of the homes sub-standard, sewage systems inadequate, land-use patterns ill defined, and the percentage of school graduates is below the national median.

killed a committee resolution asking Congress to give statehood to Hawaii and sent to committee for another year's study resolutions recommending statehood for Alaska and congressional representation for residents of the District of Columbia.

The committee also urged that the government leave "no avenue unexplored" to bring back "every American citizen" now in the hands of Communist China.

The Legion re-stated its stand against lifting trade barriers with Russia "until Soviet Russia can convince the world that she holds no people, wherever they may come from as captives."

The convention also adopted these resolutions:

1. That attorneys or teachers who invoke the Fifth Amendment in congressional hearings be disbarred or discharged.
2. That Harry Bridges, West Coast union leader, should be stripped of citizenship and deported.
3. That Henry Ford II be "careful" in screening organizations to receive donations from the Ford Foundation.
4. That the Legion endorse the McCarran Immigration Act.
5. That the investigation of Communism in the entertainment profession be pushed.

State Labor Group Endorses AFL-CIO Merger

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois State Federation of Labor has endorsed plans to merge the AFL and CIO, terming it "the greatest power of good that the workers of America have ever seen."

Delegates to the annual ISFL convention Wednesday approved an executive board report recommending the consolidation of the nation's two biggest labor organizations.

The convention authorized the executive board to increase the number of ISFL vice presidents to include CIO members if the merger takes effect before the next ISFL convention.

The executive report condemned state "right-to-work" laws, and asked for a repeal of a section of the Taft-Hartley law which permits the legislation forbidding the union shop.

Convictions of Four Puerto Rican Fanatics Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today upheld the convictions of four fanatic Puerto Rican nationalists who shot up the House of Representatives on Mar. 1, 1953.

Five congressmen were wounded when the four Puerto Ricans—three men and a woman, fired 16 shots into the House chamber. The Puerto Ricans received long prison sentences.

The court dismissed the main contention of attorneys for the Puerto Ricans that they should have received a psychiatric examination and that the jury here should have decided whether they were sane at the time.

The court pointed out that three government-appointed psychiatrists had found the Puerto Ricans sane. It rules that District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff was correct in refusing to submit the sanity question to the jury.

Predict Best Duck Hunting Season Since '52

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Illinois duck hunters, who start blazing away half an hour before sunset Saturday, may enjoy the best hunting season since 1952, waterfowl experts said today.

An estimated 100,000 hunters are expected to try their luck before the season closes Dec. 23. Fall rains have spread out the water in the Illinois River Valley, and the pintails, greenwings, and mallards should be spread out for better hunting, too.

Frank C. Bellrose, Illinois Natural History Survey game specialist at Havana, sized up prospects:

"The season looks like the best since 1952, and there are twice as many ducks in the state." He placed the number at about 125,000.

Few Good Feeding Spots

"About three-quarters of them are in the Illinois Valley, but they still are concentrated in a few good feeding places. Hunting won't be uniform up and down the river."

Bellrose said not too many ducks have shown up yet at public hunting grounds, but the situation normally improves as the season continues.

The game expert makes a weekly aerial survey to estimate the number of waterfowl in the state. Geese may also be taken in the northern zone of Illinois from Saturday until Dec. 23. The goose season in southern Illinois runs from Nov. 5 through Dec. 15.

Bellrose said most of the duck concentrations now are in the lower Illinois Valley at spots like Seabold Lake, near Henry; Spur Lake, south of Pekin; Rice Lake, near Chillicothe, and Crane, Ingram and Steward Lakes, near Brownsville.

Current populations of ducks are about 9,000 along the Mississippi and 104,000 in the Illinois Valley. Estimates include 50,000 pintail, 25,000 widgeon, 14,000 greenwing teal, 12,000 mallard, 2,400 black mallard, 9,000 bluebill and 1,200 blackjack.

"It may be as good a season as 1944, the best in the last 15 years," Bellrose said. "It depends on a lot of things."

Adams Asked to Disclose Who Attended Meeting to Sell Power

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Democratic congressional investigators today requested Presidential Asst. Sherman Adams to disclose who attended White House conferences on a proposed contract to sell federal power to the Georgia Power Co.

Chairman Earl C. Chudoff (D-Pa.) declared at a "stormy" session of his government operations subcommittee that "the people have a right to know what their representatives are doing."

He compared the handling of the Georgia power case with the Dixon-Yates contract.

Over Republican objections, Chudoff sent a telegram to Adams demanding to know how many White House conferences were held, who attended them, and when they were held.

"It's none of the business of the committee," snapped Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich). Rep. Charles Raper Jones (R-NC) growled the subcommittee "didn't need to know" such information.

Asst. Interior Secretary Fred G. Andahl told the subcommittee Wednesday night that he had attended "several White House conferences" to discuss a contract with the Georgia utility. But he refused to say who was there.

Chudoff accused Andahl and the administration of "violating" the law which requires that electric co-operatives be given preference in the sale of federal power.

He told Andahl that Andahl was trying to "get around" an opinion by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. that the co-operatives have first call on the power even if they don't have the facilities for handling it. But Andahl denied the charge.

New Managers Make Plans to Improve Cards

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — General Manager Frank Lane and field Manager Fred Hutchinson, two new St. Louis Cardinals, today laid plans for improving the seventh-place club's status in 1956.

Hutchinson, signed Wednesday by Lane who has less than a week's seniority, said the Cardinals "can't help but improve with so much young talent."

"We'll have a better team in 1956, one that will ultimately be a pennant contender," he said.

In fact, having been an American League with Detroit and on the Pacific Coast the past season, Hutchinson hasn't seen most of the team's young stars.

To Reserve Judgment

He said he wanted to reserve judgment until next spring "when I'll be working with the players" and sees what Lane turns up with trades.

However, Terry Moore and Johnny Hopp, two former Redbird heroes, also were signed Wednesday as coaches, and Hutchinson said he considered his own work with youngsters at Seattle, where his team won the PCL title, as most helpful.

Lane, who said Hutchinson's two-year contract calls for "about $30,000 a year," said, "He's the type of manager I feel will lead the Cardinals' fine young players into a higher position for two years and possibly more."

Hutchinson said his knowledge of the Cardinals roster mainly is confined to "Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst, fellows like that—considering there aren't too many fellows like that."

He expected to know more about the crop of young players after a trip to Havana with Lane next weekend when, among others, they will see Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who is pitching winter ball in Cuba.

The tactful Hutchinson said he will coach the younger pitchers and "suggest things to the older fellows."

"The older fellows, the Musials, they can set their own pace."

The new manager said he will teach the youngsters their lessons "the hard way, if necessary."

"The only way you can overcome mistakes by young players is by repeated corrections. If they repeat the mistakes, it's because you haven't corrected them enough."

Rains Usher in Brisk Cool Wave

By United Press

A brisk autumn cool wave sliced across the nation today behind heavy rainstorms.

Temperatures dropped 10 to 29 degrees from the Great Lakes southeastward through the middle Mississippi Valley and parts of the central and southern Plains.

Heavy rains ushered in the cool wave, dumping an estimated three to four inches on Jonesboro, Ark., and flooding some of the city's streets with three to four feet of water. High winds accompanied the rain, blowing over some signboards.

Rains also hit Florida, dampening the American Legion convention at Miami for the second straight day when a 2.67-inch down-pour hit the city Wednesday.

The Battle of the Alamo actually was a siege, lasting from Feb. 23 to March 6, 1836.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Southern Illinois basketball fans will get their second look at professional basketball Saturday night when the St. Louis Hawks meet the St. Louis Browns at the exhibition game at Centralia. The two members of the National Basketball Association—basketball's major league—played at Pinckneyville Tuesday with St. Louis the winner by a score of 80-60.

The Hawks, playing their first season in St. Louis since the team was moved from Milwaukee, plays a 16-game exhibition schedule, which will take the team as far north as Toronto and Hamilton, Canada.

The regular league schedule starts Nov. 5. All Hawk home games will be played in Kiel auditorium, St. Louis.

It is often said that professional football is for big men and a look at the roster of the Chicago Bears makes the statement seem true.

The latest issue of the Bear News has a picture of five linemen who are: Doug Atkins, 6 feet 8 inches, 255 pounds; Bill Bishop, 6 feet 4 inches and 250 pounds; Herman Clark, 6 feet 3 inches and 225; George Connor, 6 feet 3 inches and 240 pounds; Bill Wighkin, 6 feet 2 1/2 inches and 233. But with all this beef the Bears are having trouble winning. The other professional teams have big players too.

The Bears are one of the pioneer teams of pro football, dating back to 1920. The Bears' year book was received just recently and a look at Bears' "Hall of Fame" reveals many of the greatest names in football.

Heading the list of Bear greats is Red Grange, the old "Glim" who gained fame as the "Galloping Ghost" in the early 1920's. Other famous names are Sid Luckman, Bronko Nagurski, Bill Osmanski, Bill Hewitt, Jack Manders, George McAfee, Beattie Feathers and many, many other names that have become by words with those discussing football in days gone by.

THIS DAY IN ILLINOIS SPORTS HISTORY, Twenty-One Years Ago, Oct. 13, 1934—Les Lindberg was the passing star as Illinois upset a highly favored Ohio State team 14 to 13 in Memorial Stadium. Scoring first on a 25-yard toss from Lindberg to Jack Beynon and again on a razzle-dazzle play which Lindberg started by a lateral, Illinois moved to a 14-0 lead, then withstood a brilliant Buckeye four-quarter rally which fell just a point short when Capt. Regis Monahan missed a kick after touchdown. Monahan tried to atone with a 45-yard field goal attempt in final seconds of the game but it was short.

Carmi high school graduates played a big part in Millikin university's 81-0 victory over Elmhurst last Saturday. Millikin counted 13 TDs and former Carmi players figured in six. Quarterback Larry Kane scored once and passed for another. Halfback Louie Mitchell tallied two TDs and halfback Ted Smith carried for two more.

American League Shows Increase In Attendance

CHICAGO, Ill. — The American League could thank a red-hot pennant race and the Kansas City Athletics today for an 11.3 per cent increase in attendance during the 1955 season.

The eight league teams drew 8,942,971 fans, an increase of 1,020,607 over 1954. President Will Harridge announced Wednesday. Kansas City's increase actually amounted to more than the league total. The Athletics drew 1,393,054, a whopping 78.1 per cent increase over the 304,666 fans they drew in Philadelphia in 1954.

Three other clubs, New York, Detroit and Boston, also showed increases over 1954, and for the first time in history six clubs drew more than one million fans at home. Only Washington and Baltimore failed to at least that many.

After Kansas City, Boston showed the greatest increase, a 22.6 per cent gain. Detroit boosted its attendance 8.5 per cent and New York picked up 1 per cent more customers than in 1954.

Four teams showed decreases, Baltimore absorbing the steepest loss, 208,871 fans or 19.6 per cent. Chicago, Cleveland and Washington also registered decreases.

New York had the largest attendance both at home, with 1,490,138, and on the road, where the pennant winners lured 1,683,729 fans.

A total of 4,070,390 saw 200 night games, an 11 per cent increase even though there were 13 more are light contests in 1954. Average night game attendance was 20,352, up 2,485 from 1954.

Pan American Buys Jet Airlines

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Pan American World Airways today announced the purchase of 45 jet-powered airlines from American firms at a total cost of 357 million dollars.

The planes will be the first jet transports delivered by American manufacturers and the first to go into regular service.

The giant jets will double the capacity of the Pan American fleet and cut the flying time from New York to London to 6 hours and 15 minutes.

Badgers Lead Big 10 Standings, Best in Offense

CHICAGO, Ill. — Wisconsin, Big Ten leader with two wins and no losses, also leads the conference in total offense, statistics revealed today.

The Badgers piled up 357.5 yards in their wins over Iowa and Purdue, almost equally divided between passing and rushing. Wisconsin gained 177.5 on the ground and 180 through the air.

Ohio State, in just one game, is second with a 351-yard total, 334 by rushing.

Michigan, ranked the top team in the country in the weekly United Press poll, and Michigan State, whipped by the Wolverines by a narrow margin, share defensive honors.

Michigan has given up just one touchdown while the Spartans have allowed the opponents the fewest yards, 349 in its two games.

Purdue, the nation's leading passing team last year, continued to bid for that title, throwing 51 passes and completing 29 in two games. The Boilermakers, held to short tosses by Wisconsin, saw their average yards gained per game by passing fall to 129.5.

Northwestern has the dubious honor of fumbling the most with six bobbles in one game.

Eagles Seek Third Win at Carmi Friday

Eldorado's Eagles, looking for their third win of the season, travel to Carmi Friday night.

Carmi has proved to be a toughie for the past couple of seasons for Eldorado and tomorrow night's game stacks up as another hard fought affair.

In four games this season Carmi has won from Johnston City and Albion and lost to Lawrenceville and Benton. Benton is the only team both Eldorado and Carmi have met so far this year and the record would indicate that Eldorado might have a slight advantage, but so slight it could hardly be counted.

Benton won by one TD over Carmi, 21-14, and played to a deadlock with the Eagles.

Last Friday night Carmi rolled over Albion by a 46-6 score, counting 20 points in the opening quarter, 13 points in the second, six in the third and seven in the last frame. The Carmi reserves played practically all of the last half, accounting for the drop in scoring.

Quarterback Ronnie Winter and Halfback Bobby Winger were the big guns in the Carmi attack. Winter scored twice, once on a beautiful 39-yard run, passed for two other TDs and averaged almost 15 yards per try in gaining a total of 132 yards.

Winger scored three TDs and plunged for an extra point to score 19 points for the night.

For the game the winning Carmi team had a net gain of 239 yards by rushing and 77 yards by passing. While the offense was operating in high gear, Carmi's defense was holding Albion to a total of 134 yards, 67 by rushing and the same number through the air.

Eldorado, with a record of two victories, one tie and one loss in four games, played a husky Benton team to a 14-14 tie last week.

Eldorado, playing before a big homecoming crowd, showed lots of spirit by coming back in the second half to gain a deadlock after watching Benton take a 14-0 lead in the first two quarters.

After being pushed around more than a little bit in the first half, Eldorado came roaring back to score TDs in each of the third and fourth quarters, while holding Benton in check.

Tomorrow night's game at Carmi is the first of three games on the road for the Eagles. After the Carmi game Oct. 14, Eldorado goes to West Frankfort Oct. 21 and to Cairo Oct. 28.

Eldorado Coach Al Adams reports that all players came through the Benton game without injury and he expects to be at full strength Friday.

Tiger Jones Licks Al Andrews, Wants Title Bout

MIAMI, Fla. — Middleweight contender Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who licked Al Andrews in their TV-radio fight here Wednesday night, began maneuvering today for a title shot.

"Get me Ray Robinson and then champion Bobo Olson," said the seventh-ranked contender from Yonkers, N. Y. "I can beat Robinson again and I'll knock out Olson in six or seven rounds."

He was positive he must fight ex-champ Robinson again to get the crown, "whether Sugar Ray wins or loses in his title fight with Olson at Chicago on Nov. 4."

Despite Jones' personal yen for a bout with Robinson, it was learned that his handlers were negotiating for a possible clash with Rocky Castellani of Cleveland, Ohio, the third-ranked middleweight contender in New York or Miami in December.

Jones, who won a unanimous 10-round decision over Andrews of Superior, Wis., admitted that Olson had outpointed him earlier this year in an over-the-weight match. "But let him pare down from the 165 he weighed for me to 160, and I'll knock him out," he said.

The Tiger didn't knock out speedy Andrews Wednesday night, but he had him clutching groggily and ready for the canvas in the last round, after staggering three times in earlier sessions.

Bull Dogs Travel to Centralia Friday Night; Herrin at Benton

The low-scoring but highly defensive Harrisburg Bull Dogs take off at 4:45 p. m. tomorrow for Centralia, where they will engage the Orphan gridders in a contest the locals must win to stay in the running for the South Seven crown.

Centralia has been hot and cold this year and the local mentors are hoping that the Orphans do not choose tomorrow night to have a red-hot evening, as it would spell trouble for the Bull Dogs.

A good example is the Herrin-Centralia game a few weeks ago. Herrin ran roughed over the Orphans the first half, rolling up 26 points. Then the last half Centralia came back to score 19 points while holding Herrin scoreless.

Herrin shares the South Seven lead with Harrisburg.

Drill on Running Plays

Centralia, which beat Benton by a couple of touchdowns, then lost to Herrin in loop play, is a solid club. Best ground gainers of late have been Sylvester Henson, who has lots of speed from his halfback post, and Larry McGreevey, one of the mainstays on last year's team who is running well from fullback. Last season he was chosen to the All South Seven second team, behind Harrisburg's Tony Bell.

This week Coach Lawrence Caluffetti has been drilling his Bull Dogs to stop Centralia plays and to improve on the local running attack, which has a habit of bogging from time to time.

Herrin, which with Harrisburg has a record of two wins and no losses in league play (both have overall 4-0 marks), will not be able to ease up this week like it did last Friday night when the Tigers drubbed Christopher, 46-0.

The Tigers this week travel to Benton for a contest with Ralph Davidson's Rangers, 1-1 in league competition. Benton has been rough all year and an upset is not beyond the realm of possibility, just as is the case of the Bull Dogs at Centralia.

Rams Play West Frankfort

The way the Mt. Vernon Rams looked against Harrisburg last Friday night (they lost 6-0), Coach Noble Thomas' crew should defeat West Frankfort when it travels to the Franklin county gridiron tomorrow night. Frankfort, in three non-league games, showed signs of being pretty stiff in the South Seven, then dropped its loop opener to Marion.

Marion, the other member of the league, will be host to Johnston City in a non-conference encounter. Before the season began, Johnston City would have been an odds-on favorite to take this game, but the Indians have not been up to pre-season expectations and Marion hasn't looked bad at all.

Other games Friday evening will find Eldorado at Carmi, Chester at Carbondale, Pinckneyville at Elkhart, Anna-Jonesboro at Du Quoin, Christopher at Shawnee, Sesser at Carterville, Kennett, Mo., at Cairo, Valier at McLeansboro and Carbondale University school at Zeigler.

The South Seven standings:

| Team | W | L |
|----------------|---|---|
| Harrisburg | 2 | 0 |
| Herrin | 2 | 0 |
| Benton | 1 | 1 |
| Centralia | 1 | 1 |
| Marion | 1 | 2 |
| West Frankfort | 0 | 1 |
| Mt. Vernon | 0 | 2 |

Eaglets Lose to Benton, 20-14

Eldorado's Eaglets dropped a 20-14 football game to the young Benton Rangers Monday night on the Benton gridiron.

The two teams took turns holding the lead, but Benton was in front when the final horn sounded to gain the victory.

Benton led 6-0, then Eldorado went ahead 7-6, only to see Benton again take the lead 13-7. Eldorado once more forged to the front 14-13, but with less than a minute left to play a Benton man caught a pass in the end zone for the winning TD.

The young Eagles will be idle this next Monday, but play at Carmi Oct. 24.

Harry's Surprise Choice

Editorial — BY BRUCE BOSSAT
Former President Harry Truman's recent bump on the Democratic presidential choice must be set down as one of the early oddities of the campaign season.

It will be recalled that in 1952 when Mr. Truman was taking himself out, he was lavish in his praise of Adlai Stevenson, who became the party nominee that year. And there were many Truman comments on the record in the intervening years which suggest his support of Stevenson had not diminished.

Now comes this surprise. The former president did not simply say that Truman would make a good candidate "too." The way his remarks were phrased they amounted to giving the governor top priority in his book.

At the same time, they constituted a very left-handed compliment to Stevenson. Mr. Truman said if he were a citizen of New York state "I know who I'd be meaning Harriman. Asked whether he'd say the same if he were a citizen of Illinois, Stevenson said, "I would."

At the same time, they constituted a very left-handed compliment to Stevenson. Mr. Truman
said if he were a citizen of New York state "I know who I'd be meaning Harriman. Asked whether he'd say the same if he were a citizen of Illinois, Stevenson said, "I would."

The only evidence we have on what rank and file Democrats think of all this is a Gallup poll that is less than a month old.
It showed that Democrats overwhelmingly preferred Stevenson as their 1956 choice. The figures were quite striking — 55 per cent for Stevenson, just 6 per cent for Harriman. Indeed, Harriman did not even rate second. Senator Tamm of Tennessee took that spot with 16 per cent.

Now, we all know Mr. Truman has been contemptuous of public opinion polls ever since he foiled them in his surprise win of 1948.
But one could allow for a pretty slight margin of error before the gap between 55 and 6 would be closed. All the signs we have suggest Stevenson, not Harriman, is the Democrats' favorite today,
and that the onetime Illinois governor also would have the best chance of beating any Republican outside of President Eisenhower himself.

Mr. Truman's choice of Harriman therefore is intuitive and personal. It must be slightly confusing to at least a few other Democratic party leaders.

Of Commerce

With the opening of the 241-mile Ohio Turnpike, the development of a great super-road from New York to Chicago moves a big stride closer to fulfillment.

The Ohio highway ties in directly with the 300-mile Pennsylvania Turnpike, which presently is a scant six or seven miles from a link with the New Jersey Turnpike, leading northeastward some 60 miles to New York City.

Final additions to the 825-mile route are due next year. According to present schedules, the eastern end, 25 miles of the Indiana Turnpike, joining with the Ohio road, will be opened next June 30.
By Sept. 15, another 75 miles should be ready, and by Nov. 15 the whole 128 miles to the Chicago line will be in use.

The link between the Pennsylvania and New Jersey pikes involves a bridge across the Delaware River. The connecting stretch should be ready by next April or May.

Thus next year promises great gains in long-distance motoring convenience. More important, it holds the prospect of far greater driving safety.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is considering proposed revisions of the official U. S. standards for grades of slaughter bar-

Get Well,
Mr. President and Happy Birthday!

On Friday, Oct. 14, President Eisenhower will be 65 years old.
He will spend that milestone day in Fitzsimons General Hospital in Denver.

There he is fighting the damage done by the heart attack that struck him five days ago.

The prayers of all America have helped in that valiant fight.
Prayers still are needed.

Needed, too, are tangible things.
Like birthday greetings that traditionally carry the message of fellowship and good wishes from friend to friend.

And birthday gifts that tell your friend you think enough of him to do a little something extra.

Here's a way all of us can do these things.
Clip out this little birthday greeting.

Put it in an envelope addressed to:
GET WELL, IKE HEART
DENVER, COLO.

Enclose a $1 bill.
After the President receives your greeting, the Denver headquarters of the American Heart Assn. will separate the money and will add it to the Heart Fund which is financing research designed to beat the type of illness that hit the President.

As friend to friend, mail your greeting today.

The WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND
by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Nixon Was Deftly Rebuffed
On His Plan To Be Acting President, Brownell, Humphrey, Adams Spiked Vice President's Ambition; Secret Power Play Waged During Ike's Illness.

WASHINGTON — A play for power always takes place around the person of an ailing president or monarch. Some of the most disastrous intrigue in our history has taken place during the illness of Woodrow Wilson, when Secretary of State Lansing, uncle of John Foster Dulles, was forced to sign because he tried to take over some of the powers of the President.

Power politics also occurred during the closing year of Franklin Roosevelt's administration.
When it became apparent he could not last much longer, and the illness of President Eisenhower has been no exception.

The political bucking behind Ike's back has been kept largely from the public and so far hasn't affected important policy. But behind the pleasant statements and the trip by Vice President Nixon to Denver has been the struggle of fact that Nixon made a bold bid for power and was blocked off by loyal members of the Eisenhower staff and cabinet.

For a time, Nixon's attempt to move in as acting president caused deep resentment among the White House personnel and he was told rather bluntly that the staff and cabinet could carry on without his barking into the picture.

Part of this inside power struggle already has been told. Part is still held very close to the chest of top cabinet members and probably will be denied. However, it's extremely important in connection with the question of who will inherit Ike's mantle as GOP candidate in 1960.

PRESIDENT VS. V. P.
The founding fathers made no clear provision that the vice president should take over the powers of the President in case of illness, and practice has kept the two offices largely separate.

Charles G. Dawes, for instance, missed a tie vote in the Senate under Calvin Coolidge because he said his alarm clock didn't go off and he overslept. But it was reliably reported that Dawes' late arrival was deliberate. The two men didn't get along.

Vice President Jack Garner never was completely out of sympathy with much of the Roosevelt program. Vice President Charles Curtiss was never close to Herbert Hoover, and Vice President Henry Wallace, though sympathetic with Roosevelt, was given charge of the Board of Economic Warfare, was in a constant battle with Jesse Jones and Cordell Hull.

Nixon, long before Eisenhower became ill, had staged an adroit and partially successful drive to become part of the executive branch of government. He even managed to get himself photographed as presiding over a cabinet meeting while Eisenhower was in Geneva. So far as observers can recall, this was the first time, certainly in recent history, that a cabinet meeting was held under the vice president.

NIXON MOVES IN Immediately after Eisenhower was stricken, however, Nixon moved in with a bang. He and close friends proposed that he become, in effect, acting president.
This has already been denied, and will be denied again. Now that the President is as well as road to recovery, Nixon's friends don't want it to appear that he tried to move in on the White House. However, the fact is that he did, and many members of the White House staff resented it.

So did most members of the cabinet.

Nixon's close friend, William Rogers, deputy attorney general, has denied that he telephoned Attorney General Brownell in Spain to ask him for a ruling whereby Nixon would be given presidential powers. Other Justice Department officials say a more accurate description would be that he looked places during the illness of the president.

At any rate he did ask Lee Rankin, assistant attorney general in charge of legal opinions, for a legal opinion on this question.
Rankin was highly skeptical.
Brownell was even more so. In fact he was flatly opposed.

Meanwhile Jim Hagerty, White House press secretary, in Denver had announced publicly that such a ruling was being considered, while Nixon confided the same information to newsmen.

"I can't be quoted," he said,
"but it's under consideration."
In one argument with Brownell, Nixon also pointed out that he was elected by the American people, therefore should take control in the emergency. The cabinet and White House staff, he argued, were only appointed.

The men who finally put the young vice president in his place and put him there hard were Brownell, Sherman Adams, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. They were polite about it, but they were equally emphatic.
They may deny it now, but this was the fact.

At a meeting in Humphrey's office, he outlined the strategy of sending Sherman Adams out to Denver with a couple of documents for the President to sign, even though inconsequential, to prove to the public that business would continue as usual and that no acting president was necessary.
This was done.

As a facesaver, Adams had the clear provision that the vice president sign a letter to Nixon whereby he was asked to carry on his previous titular functions, such as presiding over the National Security Council. But the letter contained a carefully worded instruction that Nixon was to handle these matters under the same setup as in the past—in other words, he would make no policy decisions.

As another facesaver, Nixon was also given a trip to Denver. But Sherman Adams was careful to go along.

Nobody knew at the time this power play first started whether Charles Curtiss was going to pull through or not. So the cabinet members realized they might be making enemies of the man who might become President of the United States. However, despite denials, they acted promptly and with vigor, though never taking off the silk gloves.

But when it was all over the young vice president had no illusions about the fact that he had been put in his place. A old friend from Congress asked him to help expedite an important matter dealing with the New England flood area.

Nixon declined. He said he had no authority, could make no recommendations, give no advice.
He had the air of a man whose bubble has been very much deflated.

William Henry Harrison, the ninth U. S. president, was 68 when he came in effect, acting president.
He had the air of a man whose bubble has been very much deflated.

'Smokey,' Forest Service Fire Prevention Bear, Deserves the Best

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — "Smokey," the bear, is 5 years old and is getting a little cocky, not to mention more than a little fussy about his meals.

Guess you can't blame the black bear. He is the most celebrated bear in the world. Dr. William M. Mann, head man at the Washington Zoo, who is "Smokey's" keeper, says the sassy guy will have no truck with common berries. He won't lick a tongue to anything that doesn't come at the highest price on the market—which is just what he gets.

"Smokey" isn't really a bear as bears go. He is more of a symbol. You may recall that, scared as a cub, tail scarred and motherless, he was rescued by rangers during a fire in the Lincoln National Forest in New Mexico.

The Department of Agriculture saw the possibilities of promotion and got its Forest Service to get hold of an artist to put "Smokey" in oils and then on black and white and then onto billboards and ads around in the papers. "Prevent Forest Fires." That's what all of the words under "Smokey" said. "Smokey Deserves Best"

"Smokey" deserves the best in fine berries and the best in honey and whatever else a nice bear likes. The worst year for forest fires was in 1943. At that time there were 210,226 forest fires and 33 1/3 million acres of fine timber went up in smoke.

I guess you can give "Smokey" and his backers, the Department of Agriculture and insurance companies, credit for bringing that figure down. Last year, thanks largely to promotion, there were only 176,891 forest fires, according to the U. S. Forest Service. And the acreage burned over was 8,832,963.

But, the government says, that still is far too high. And "Smokey," even if he drops dead of berry fever today, will keep on working. Working through posters and ads to stamp out camp fires and quit throwing cigarette and cigar butts into the brush.

Fire Prevention Week
This is a good time to bring up the subject—for it's National Fire Prevention Week.

Fires in the woods are only part of the misery we have from flame. According to Hathaway K. Kemper, president of Lumbermans Mutual Casualty Co., "The United States has become the world's worst fire trap."

This man isn't an alarmist, but

Don't Leave Clothes Too Long in Dryer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (U.P.) — Don't leave clothes in the automatic dryer after they are dry, a University of Illinois home management specialist warns.

The over-drying makes ironing harder because wrinkles are deep set and fabrics are likely to wear out quicker too, according to Miss Catherine Sullivan.

The U. of I. specialist also suggests that some articles like shirts and table linens should be taken from the dryer while they are slightly damp for immediate ironing.

he knows that figures don't lie. At the rate we're going, he says, it looks very much like homes of at least 12 million Americans will be damaged or destroyed by fire in the next 10 years.

All of this comes at a time when we have the best fire-fighting equipment in the world. Fact remains that cigarettes can be dropped. People smoke in bed and camp fires are left burning.

The wavelength of light determines its color.
